Re: Linda Steward

To Whom it May Concern:

I have known Linda Steward for almost 14 years. Her vision and goals in life have always been clear to me and those who know her. She is in the business of helping women stay clean and sober from the disease of alcohol, drugs, and other crippling powers. She offers practical, wise, and loving assistance unmatched in any recovery home that I am aware of. She is patient, generous, and an honest woman. I refer women to her home because I trust her completely and know they will get the much needed help they are searching for. Linda puts people first instead of profit in every aspect of her life. Her business, The Love Creations, is operated with those same values. I am an accountant and recent law graduate. For several years I have helped her with her accounting and tax needs and she has always sought to maintain high ethical standards and practices in doing business.

If you have any questions or need further information, please contact me.

Sincerely,

Eva Steward
